

BUSINESS & COMMERCE TODAY

19 October 2006

CKS Group plc

Everyone associated with the Business & Commerce Today publication is very excited to introduce the recipient of the much sought after 'Innovative Environmental Management Award 2006' - CKS Group plc.

Now approaching its 10th anniversary, CKS is building an impressive portfolio of trusted companies that deliver secure asset recovery, recycling and disposal to business users of IT and Telecoms equipment. The award reflects the services provided to these customers and the group's investment in best practice facilities and active engagement in policy formulation in both data security and environmental sectors.

Derek Morgan, Head of Strategy, responds, "CKS employees and customers alike, are proud to see our combined efforts recognised by the panel of adjudicators. There are significant health and environmental issues associated with the disposal of electronic equipment and it takes a special class of customer to recognise the benefits of new, improved methods over the old ways. Ethically responsible users and manufacturers are critical to our own success and it is encouraging to see their growing determination to avoid using the third world as a cheap alternative to proper process."

CKS supports clients in developing and executing a lifecycle approach to resource management, and has specialist skills in server decommissioning, data wiping, PC refurbishment and electronics recycling. CKS is currently investing a further £8 million in a new facility and education centre to support the UK's new WEEE and Batteries Regulations for security conscious customers.

CKS applies profits and recovered assets to the development of key skills in developing markets. Since 1998, CKS has sponsored the teaching and facilities to support over 75,000 students of the Institute of Computer Technology in Ghana as well as schools in Romania through Rotary contacts.

Mr Morgan concludes, "It is easy to be passionate and even expert in our industry, what sets us apart is our determination to challenge the status quo and demand improvement. Innovation does not happen by accident."

For further details about this award winning company, please visit www.cksgroup.co.uk, or alternatively call 01344 307 788 and see what the company can do for you today!